America: The Developing Nation (America, Great Crises In Our History Told by its Makers Book 6)

Sam Houston, John C. Calhoun, Charles Dickens, Horace Greeley, Samuel F. Morse, Frederick Douglass, Andrew Jackson, William Lloyd Garrison, Alexander Hamilton

The years 1820 to 1845 saw immense changes to the United States, which this volume of eye-witness accounts brings to life. You'll read William H Seward on the building of the Erie Canal, accounts of the first American locomotive, an early steamboat journey, and Samuel Morse describing the invention of the telegraph – all developments which spurred the expansion of the nation. It was a turbulent time politically. You'll compare the differing opinions of Andrew Jackson and John C Calhoun. The abolition of slavery was a major issue, and you'll learn much from the words of Frederick Douglass, Horace Greeley and William Lloyd Garrison – and Dr Dew's defense of the practice. Then there's Sac indian chief Black Hawk's own account of his war of 1832; and Charles Dickens's memorable record of his visit to the USA. There's Sam Houston on the Battle of San Jacinto, and gripping accounts of the fall of the Alamo, the annexation of Texas, and the Creek and Seminole wars – all compulsive reading.

Introduction To The Series

"After you've heard two eyewitness accounts of an auto accident, you begin to worry about history." This observation, attributed to the comedian Henny Youngman, summarizes the dilemma you face when you want to find out what really happened in the past. When you read a history book, the "facts" are actually the author's own interpretation, often colored by a conscious or unconscious wish to have you share a particular point of view. You're one step (or many steps) removed from the original source material.

That's why the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States compiled this 12-volume collection of writings of people who actually witnessed the key events in American history - the actual actors in the events or contemporary observers of them. Past historians have spent decades locating, studying and consulting vast amounts of material such as this. This meticulously chosen selection brings you the essence of history as originally recorded by those who participated in it.

You'll be reading mostly eye-witness accounts, by people contemporary with the events they describe, including many significant historical figures themselves. So you can make your own assessments, draw your own conclusions and gain an understanding of past events undistorted by the prejudices, assumptions and selectivity of professional historians. In some instances where there aren't reliable or easily accessible eye-witness accounts, the compilers have chosen extracts from objective, authoritative historians of past generations such as

Francis Parkman whose judgements have stood the test of time. Through these accounts, your knowledge of American history will be immeasurably greater, your understanding of the key events in the building of the nation immensely increased.

Founded in 1899, the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States (VFW) is a nonprofit organization dedicated to foster camaraderie among United States veterans of overseas conflicts, from the Spanish-American War to Iraq and Afghanistan, and to ensure that they receive due respect and entitlements for the sacrifices they and their loved ones have made on behalf of the nation. With this mission, the VFW has a natural desire to encourage a broad understanding and appreciation of American history, and this essential collection of historical documents makes a huge contribution to that aim.

This reissue was scanned, formatted and converted to e-book format by Library4Science.com with the permission and encouragement of the VFW, to make the series more accessible to a wider public. The VFW receives 50% of all royalty revenue from these e-books. This book is about 300 print pages long.
