In My Pastor, My Money, and Why We're Not Talking, J. Robert Moon crafted a game-changing approach to cultivating a powerful, rewarding, and respectful relationship between clergy and their wealthy congregants. Here in this collection of essays by a wide variety of contributors-noted ministers, writers, and counselors-In the Shade of the Sycamore Tree continues the work of the earlier book by setting the table and sending out the invitations to foster thoughtful explorations about clergy perspectives on wealth and its interconnection among ministers and laity alike. Come and join the feast that begins to dismantle the boundaries that have remained erected so long between the material and spiritual well-being of Christian Life.
